E-list 55. History of Science: 44 items

1. Adelmann, Howard B.: Marcello Malpighi and the Evolution of Embryology. Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press, 1966.

First edition. 5 vols. Folio, pp. [xxiv], 726 + 1 folding plate; [x], [4], 727-1013, [7] + 11 folding plates; [x], [4], 1017-1526; [x], [5], 1528-2062; [x], [5], 2064-2475, all with illustrated frontispiece. First two leaves (acknowledgements) of vol. 1 loose, else very good copies. Blue cloth, the odd spot or scratch, spines a bit faded, modern library stamp to front free endpaper, small paper label to spine of vols. 2-5.

'Peerless among monographs in the history of science' ('BioScience', 1967).

3. Blair, John & Ramsay, Nigel (eds.): English Medieval Industries. London: The Hambledon Press, 1991.

First edition. 8vo., pp. xxxiv, 446 + plates. Numerous illustrations to text. Hardback: blue cloth, gilt-lettered to spine, fine. Dust-jacket, a touch of shelf-wear, very good.

[53958]

4. Chaucer, Geoffrey (attrib.): (Price, D. J., ed.): The Equatorie of the Planetis: A manuscript treatise ascribed to Chaucer [...]. With a linguistic analysis by R. M. Wilson. Cambridge University Press, 1955.

First edition thus. 4to., pp. xvi, 214 + plates. Facsimile text interleaved, figures and illustrations. Hardback: green cloth, black title-piece to spine, gilt-lettered, blind stamp of an astronomical pattern to centre of upper board, top edge green. Other than a little shelf-dust speckling the other edges a clean and very good book and contents. Cream dust-jacket, price-clipped, now a bit grubby with several small closed tears and creases to edges, but still good overall.

A complete facsimile of the text is interleaved with a line-by-line transcription and followed by a translation into modern English and a set of critical and explanatory notes.

5. Clark, Sir George (Vols. 1 &2); Cooke, A. M. (Vol. 3): A History of the Royal College of Physicians of London. Volume One; Volume Two; Volume Three. Oxford: Clarendon Press for The Royal College of Physicians. 1964; 1966; 1972.

First editions. 3 vols. 8vo., pp. xxiii, 426; xix, 427-800; xxvii, 801-1247 + plates to each vol. inc. fold-out map of London to rear of Vol. I. Hardback: black cloth, gilt-lettered to spine. Most corners slightly bumped edges a little dusty, more pronounced to Vol. 3., but still very good. Vols. 1 & 2 without dust-jackets, that on Vol. 3 creased to top edges with two 2-3 cm closed tears to front cover. A useful set with interesting provenances.

Volumes 1 & 2 each with ink manuscript, "To Sir Stanford Cade, KBE, CB, FRCS, FRCP, FRCOG, the gift of the Royal College of Physicians of London." Volume 3 with an orange Lewis's Lending Library sticker to upper board and front pastedown, folding over top edge.

Sir Stanford Cade, formerly Kadinsky, (1895 – 1973) was a British surgeon, born in the Russian Empire and educated in Belgium, who pioneered the combined use of surgery and radiotherapy in the treatment of cancer, a subject on which he wrote two books. During WW2 he also served in the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, rising to the rank of air vice-marshal, and received his knighthood consequent to suggesting improvements in the design of fighter plane cockpits to minimise injury to pilots.

7. Darwin, Charles: (Burkhardt, Frederick; Porter, Duncan M.; et al., eds.:) The Correspondence of Charles Darwin. Cambridge University Press, 1985-1997; 2002.

First edition. 8vo., pp. xxxii, 702; xxxvi, 603; xxxii, 523; xxxvi, 711; xxxii, 705; xxxii, 673; xxxviii, 671; xxxviii, 766; xxxvi, 609; xl, 936; xl, 695 + plates to all vols. Hardbacks: black cloth, green title-piece to spine, gilt-lettered, a few corners lightly bumped and Vol. 8 with a larger dent to outer board-edges, light dust-marking to edges and Vol.5 with a considerable tea-stain to top edge (only), but all volumes unread and internally clean. Dust-jackets, creasing to jacket edges with a few tiny nicks to edges, a couple of corners with closed tears, Vol. 7 with two larger but still closed tears to centre of front flap-fold, but still very good overall.

The Darwin Correspondence Project was founded in 1974 by an American scholar, Frederick Burkhardt, with the help of his wife, Anne Schlabach Burkhardt. and Sydney Smith, a zoologist in the University of Cambridge (all three now deceased). Setting out with the aim of locating all letters written by Charles Darwin, they originally intended to publish only summaries. This original intention then developed with Cambridge University Press into a plan, which remains ongoing, to publish for the first time a complete edition of the entire correspondence, consisting of “full authoritative texts of Darwin's (letters)... edited according to modern textual editorial principles and practice”. A total of 30 volumes are anticipated, with 28 now published. Here we have the first 10 volumes, covering the years 1821-1862, with Vol. 13, containing 1865 and supplementary material for 1822-1864.

41. Thorndike, Lynn: A History of Magic and Experimental Science [Vols. I & II] During the First Thirteen Centuries of our Era; [Vols. III & IV] Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries; [Vols. V & VI] The Sixteenth Century; [Vol. VII & VIII] The Seventeenth Century. New York: Columbia University Press, 1923; 1934; 1941; 1958.

Later reprints of first edition. 8 vols., 8vo., pp. xl, 835; vi, 1036; xxvi, 827; xxviii, 767; xxii, 695; xviii, 766; x, 695; viii, 808. Hardback: green cloth, gilt-lettered to spine, blind stamp of Columbia University insignia to upper board of all except Vol. III. Issued without dust-jackets, but all volumes retaining publisher's protective tissue covers. Minor signs of shelf-wear in all volumes but not readership in most; vol. II however with concave spine bears exceptional witness to both enthusiasm and weightiness. Otherwise and overall, a very good set.

Although dated as first published, all these volumes are numbered as later impressions (I & II seventh; III - VI sixth; VII & VIII fifth), and all have 10-digit ISBNs, and so were printed sometime between 1970 and 2007. For a work commenced by the author in 1902, this continuity in print is testament indeed to the durability of scholarship and application.
